“THE EMPEROR’S NEW .....” (“THEY THOUGHT IT WAS GAMAY”) SECTION

2021 Rippon “Gamay”, Lake Wanaka, Central Otago, New Zealand	155

Big news out of Central Otago very recently & Lake Wanaka's Rippon in particular is that their famed gamay has been identified as being in fact...wait for it...pinot noir. In June of this year, Rippon's Nick Mills requested a DNA analysis of the property's ungrafted “gamay” vines (planted in 1987, tiny plot: 11 rows, 0.338ha) & it has now been confirmed they are as-yet-unidentified clones of pinot noir that have managed to not reveal their true identity for nearly 40 years. Who else has used the so-called “Rippon” clone of gamay? Rippon's unique, ageworthy, structured, “gamay” all makes sense now...great wine just not gamay unfortunately (don't get me started on albariño & savagnin in Australia)
